No, I do not want anyone to provide the client with an evaluation of their insurance needs.

"McMichael Insurance is a professional organization that is one of the best ambassadors for the reasons why we seek to make our products available only through independent agencies instead of direct marketing channels. They help us be a more professional organization, even as they continue to grow their own business through providing invaluable professional advice to their clients. They are continually and actively working toward satisfying their customers' needs."

Michelle Benz, Executive Vice President
Chief Sales, Marketing & Strategy Officer

"McMichael Insurance has large agency capabilities with hometown values and strong relationship ties to their clients. As an insurance adjuster, their continuing high educational standards and level of professionalism makes my job much easier. This is a great agency."
